

Transition School

Dream Big. Reach High. We'll Help.

For some high school students with disabilities, preparing for life after graduation is essential. An enriched and successful future is filled with meeting new challenges, like employment, independent living, and social adjustment. UDS provides the guidance and mentorship for students to not only flourish but also achieve their dreams.

We prepare the way to success

Our goal is to help junior and senior high school students transition into the next part of their lives. The classes are kept small, and everything is confidential. We give students a safe place to discuss things they can't always discuss in school. We address real life issues as they occur such as self-management, financial management, vocational and community orientation. We provide the tools to help students make a positive transition from high school to employment or college, and become successful adults.

Eligibility and Cost

The UDS Transition School is designed for high school juniors and seniors. Student selection is based on public school recommendations as well as the student's individual goals, interests and ability to interact productively within a group structure. Enrollment is at no cost to the student, based upon assessment of the student's scholarship qualifications.
